Date:	Friday, January 17, 2014 6:04:21 PM

Bayoji, Lee and Laura:

You will be on our next reading panel for the class on Tuesday. Our discussion will focus on the structure of statutes and how the realities of the legislative drafting process affects they ways we should interpret them. In particular, we will use these standard statutory structures and drafting insights to prepare a draft statute in class. As our reading bench, I'll ask you to take the lead in helping capture and structure the class discussion into statutory language.

We will also review the public choice theory, social choice theory and the positive political theory discussions on page 134-136, albeit briefly.

As always, you can find the readings and supplemental materials at the class website (http://www.law.uh.edu/faculty/thester/courses/Statutory2014/course.html).

Have a great weekend.
