

UH Law Center alum named “Honorary Civilian Commander”

July 12, 2011 – University of Houston Law Center alumnus Robert J. Nader, an attorney practicing in Tampa, Fla., will be inducted as an Honorary Civilian Commander of the Judge Advocate General’s office at MacDill Air Force Base, known in military parlance as “the Sixth Air Mobility Wing.”

The Honorary Commander program pairs local leaders in law, medicine, business, religion and municipal governments with Wing Commanders, Group Commanders, Command Chiefs, and Squadron Commanders to be integrated into every aspect of each organization represented. Air Force leaders get a pulse on the civilian community's concerns, while simultaneously helping civic leaders gain further understanding of missions and policies. Honorary Commanders are asked to participate in activities such as an aerial-refueling orientation flight, promotions, official wing functions including award ceremonies, changes of command and MacDill's annual AirFest. Honorary Commanders hold their position, on a volunteer basis, for two years.

In addition to this appointment, Nader has been named President-Elect of the Hillsborough County Bar Association for 2011-2012.
