Leviticus 5:1 – “If anyone sins because they do not speak up when they hear a public charge to testify regarding something they have seen or learned about, they will be held responsible.”

RULE 1.6: DUTY TO PRESERVE CONFIDENTIALITY

(c) A lawyer shall make reasonable efforts to prevent the inadvertent or unauthorized disclosure of, or unauthorized access to, information relating to the representation of a client.

1.6 COMMENTS: GENERAL

[1] This Rule governs the disclosure by a lawyer of information relating to the representation of a client during the lawyer's representation of the client.

See other rules governing disclosure of information regarding previous and potential clients.

1.6 COMMENTS: PRINCIPLE

[2] A fundamental principle in the client-lawyer relationship is that, in the absence of the client's informed consent, the lawyer must not reveal information relating to the representation. This contributes to the trust that is the hallmark of the client-lawyer relationship. The client is thereby encouraged to seek legal assistance and to communicate fully and frankly with the lawyer even as to embarrassing or legally damaging subject matter.

1.6 COMMENTS: RELATED BODIES OF LAW

[3] The principle of client-lawyer confidentiality is given effect by related bodies of law:

- Attorney-client privilege,
- Work product doctrine and
- Rule of confidentiality established in professional ethics.

1.6 COMMENTS: ATTORNEY-CLIENT PRIVILEGE AND WORK PRODUCT DOCTRINE

The attorney-client privilege and work product doctrine apply in judicial and other proceedings in which a lawyer may be called as a witness or otherwise required to produce evidence concerning a client.

1.6 COMMENTS: CONFIDENTIALITY RULE

The rule of client-lawyer confidentiality applies in situations other than those where evidence is sought from the lawyer through compulsion of law. The confidentiality rule, for example, applies to all information relating to the representation, whatever its source. A lawyer may not disclose such information except as authorized or required by the Rules of Professional Conduct or other law.

1.6 COMMENTS: AUTHORIZED DISCLOSURE

[5] Lawyers in a firm may, in the course of the firm's practice, disclose to each other information relating to a client of the firm, unless the client has instructed that particular information be confined to specified lawyers

1.6 COMMENTS:

DISCLOSURE ADVERSE TO CLIENT CONTINUED...

Thus, a lawyer who knows that a client has accidentally discharged toxic waste into a town's water supply may reveal this information to the authorities if there is a present and substantial risk that a person who drinks the water will contract a life-threatening or debilitating disease and the lawyer's disclosure is necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce the number of victims.

1.6 COMMENTS:

COURT/LAW EXCEPTION

[15] Absent informed consent of the client, the lawyer should assert on behalf of the client all nonfrivolous claims that the order is not authorized by other law or that the information sought is protected against disclosure by the attorney-client privilege or other law.

1.6 COMMENTS: DISCLOSURE

[16] Paragraph (b) permits disclosures. . .

Where practicable, the lawyer should first seek to persuade the client to take suitable action to obviate the need for disclosure.

1.6 COMMENTS: DISCLOSURE CONTINUED

In any case, a disclosure adverse to the client's interest should be no greater than the lawyer reasonably believes necessary to accomplish the purpose.

1.6 COMMENTS: FORMER CLIENTS

[20] The duty of confidentiality continues after the client-lawyer relationship has terminated.

ABA FORMAL OP. 18-480

Lawyers who blog or engage in other public commentary may not reveal information relating to a representation, including information contained in a public record, unless authorized by a provision of the Model Rules.

TEXAS OPINION #669, MARCH 2018

Under the Texas Disciplinary Rules of Professional Conduct, may a lawyer retained by an insurance company notify the insurance company that the insured client he was assigned to represent is not cooperating in the defense of the client's lawsuit?

ANSW: If an insured fails to communicate with a lawyer who is retained to defend the insured, then the lawyer may withdraw from the representation. In that event, the lawyer must protect the insured's confidential information and may not, in the absence of the insured's consent, disclose to the insurance company the reason for the withdrawal.

TEXAS OPINION #669, MARCH 2018

In connection with moving to withdraw from the suit, the lawyer should avoid disclosing, either to the court or to the insurance company, the specific reason for the withdrawal.

The lawyer instead should provide only a general explanation that professional considerations require withdrawal, although there are circumstances in which a court may require that additional information be provided to the court.
