Course Description

As a student in this clinic, you will participate in the representation of clients with immigration cases. The clinic's case load includes people seeking asylum and other humanitarian relief from removal, Special Immigrant Juvenile status, and visas for victims of crime and trafficking, in addition to other family-based immigration.

You are your client's attorney and will be responsible for all aspects of the case—client interviewing and counseling, fact investigation and development, working with expert witnesses, legal research, drafting documents and applications, negotiations, and trial advocacy as necessary. You will work under the supervision of one of the professors.

In addition to the work you do on your client's case, known as fieldwork, there is a classroom component to the clinic. The clinic will meet once per week for one hour for case rounds. Case rounds are group problem solving sessions where a team presents a problem to the class and the class helps the team to examine the problem, consider their own goals, and brainstorm solutions.

Learning Outcomes

By the conclusion of your participation in the Immigration Clinic, you are expected to competently:

- Take on the role and responsibilities of a lawyer representing a client and exercise professional judgment in all aspects of a representation;
- Solve problems through a process of planning and decision-making;
- Research, develop, and assess legal arguments, investigate potentially relevant facts, and reassess arguments as new facts become known;
- Identify, analyze, and resolve ethical issues;
- Collaborate with others;
- Conduct carefully planned interviews with attention toward building rapport, gathering information, developing a case theory, and other goals;
- Identify and deal with cultural, linguistic, and other differences that affect communication;
- Identify and sensitively deal with effects of a client's traumatic experiences;
- Identify and sensitively deal with the effects of trauma on a lawyer's own mental health;
- Counsel a client in a way that effectively assists them in making informed decisions;
- Make persuasive, clear, responsive, well-organized and well-supported arguments in all instances of written or oral advocacy;
- Present facts in a coherent, compelling and persuasive manner in written and oral form;
- Memorialize your work;
- Engage in seminar through preparation and involvement;
- Support and assist classmates during case rounds;
- Engage in thoughtful and constructive self-critique;
- Engage in thoughtful and constructive critique of others in a manner that fosters on-going learning and professional growth;
- Be able to explain, critically evaluate, and develop proposals for improving the legal standards and procedure that you encounter in your clinic work.

Assessment

Your grade for the clinic will depend on your progress toward accomplishing the learning outcomes above.

The Immigration Clinic is graded as an ordinary University of Houston Law Center course. According, Law Center policy requires the final grade average for the course to be 3.20 – 3.40 on a 4.0 scale or whatever scale is in effect at the time of enrollment.

Class Attendance

Class attendance is mandatory unless otherwise excused by one of the professors. Students may not be absent for more than two classes. By attending class sessions, you are certifying that you are prepared for class.

In addition to class time, you will meet in person with your supervisor weekly, at a time that is convenient for both. Meetings with your supervisor may become more frequent as a deadline or a hearing approaches.

Students are required to complete 50 hours of clinic work per course credit during the semester (i.e. 150 hours of clinic work for three credits). Clinic work includes class attendance, client work, and supervision meetings.

Students may elect to take Immigration Clinic II for two, three, or four credits.

Schedule of classes and major assignments

Readings, other seminar assignments and asynchronous materials will be posted.

The UHLC Honor Code applies to all aspects of this course. You are responsible for knowing all Honor Code provisions and for complying with the Honor Code. Please inquire if you have any questions regarding how the Honor Code's provisions apply to specific activities or situations related to this course. Your continuing enrollment in this course is deemed to be a pledge by you under the Honor Code to comply with the Honor Code in relation to this course and to comply with the instructions in the course syllabus.

AI Generated Work Product

General. Generative artificial intelligence is a form of machine learning that creates new and original output based on the data it has been trained on or has access to, employing algorithms to generate content in response to prompts. Examples of the technology include what are known as generative "large language models" (LLMs). Two well-known LLM implementations are ChatGPT and Claude. LLM output can include text, images, music, code, and more. This syllabus policy covers the textual output of generative LLMs (AI-Generated Text)—which can include computer code or programs and human-language content. Because AI-Generated Text can often mimic human intelligence, it could potentially be used as a substitute for a student's own work product. Such use is potentially problematic to the extent that it becomes a substitute for internalized student understanding of the material or creates a dependency on AI-Generated Text, which may be strictly prohibited in settings that include the bar examination.

Prohibition. Subject to the exceptions immediately below, your continuing enrollment in this course constitutes your pledge not to generate or to use any AI-Generated Text—whether from yourself or others—in relation to any assessment in this course. The term “assessment” means any graded or ungraded work product for this course that is submitted to the instructor, produced pursuant to your representation of your client, presented in a class session, or used in an oral or written graded assessment for this course.

Exceptions.

The following AI-Generated Text uses are exceptions to the preceding prohibition. The exceptions’ intent is to allow the generation and use of AI-Generated Text for specific, narrowly defined activities related to this course.

- You may generate and use AI-Generated Text for class preparation, although you must disclose the full extent of that use if your professor asks. You may generate and use AI-Generated Text for study supplements to aid with general understanding of course content. This could take different forms that include creating examples or explanations of a concept, generation of diagrams and flow charts, “gamification” of course content, flash cards for study, or sample questions and answers.
- You may generate and use AI-Generated Text for an outline that summarizes the course content.
- You may use AI-Generated Text to check your originally drafted text for misspellings, grammar and punctuation errors, strength and clarity of prose, verbosity, effective transitional language and thesis sentences, word choice, excessive passive voice, and similar things.

Diversity, Inclusion, and Wellness

This is an inclusive learning space.

At UHLC, we are committed to ensuring inclusive online and classroom learning spaces, where you’ll be treated with respect and dignity, and where everyone is provided the equitable opportunity to participate, to contribute, and to succeed.

In this course, all students are welcome regardless of socio-economic status, age, race, ethnicity, disability, religion, national origin, veteran’s status, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, political affiliation, marital status and other diverse identities that we each bring to class. Our class is richer for this diversity.

Inclusive learning spaces facilitate the innovation and creative thought that enhance student success. This success arises from the participation, support, and understanding of you and your colleagues. I encourage you to speak up and to share your views, but also understand that you are doing so in a learning environment in which we’re all expected to engage respectfully and with regard to the dignity of all others.

If you feel like your class performance is impacted in any way by your experiences inside or outside of class, please reach out to me. I want to be a resource for you. If you feel more comfortable speaking with someone besides me, the Office of Student Affairs (OSA) is an excellent resource.

At this university level course, the material is intended to encourage critical thinking and discussion as we examine new ideas and concepts from varying frameworks. To do this effectively I, as the instructor, will do my best to foster an environment in which each class member is able to hear and respect each other. In turn, it is vital that each class member show respect for all worldviews and experiences expressed in class. It is my intent that students from all backgrounds and perspectives be well served by this course, that students' learning needs be addressed both in and out of class, and that the different backgrounds and perspectives that students bring to this class be viewed as a resource, strength, and benefit. It is my intent to present materials and activities that are respectful to all.

Student Professionalism

Our classroom is a learning space where each student is treated with respect and dignity and where everyone is provided the opportunity to participate, contribute, and succeed. In this course, all students are welcome regardless of background or identity. I encourage you to speak up and share your views appropriately throughout the semester. I also expect every class member to remember that in this learning environment and a law firm, we will engage respectfully, supportively, and with professionalism toward each other.

Preferred Name and Pronouns

We will gladly honor your request to address you by an alternate name or gender pronoun. Please advise the professors of this preference early in the semester so that we may make appropriate changes to our records.

Anti-Discrimination and Sexual Misconduct Policies

UHLC and the University of Houston are committed to maintaining and strengthening an educational, working, and living environment where students, faculty, staff, and visitors are free from discrimination and sexual misconduct. Due to this reporting requirement, faculty members and other employees are not a confidential resource. The reporting obligations under the sexual misconduct policy extends to alleged conduct by University employees and students.

Title IX/Sexual Misconduct

Per the UHS Sexual Misconduct Policy, your instructor is a “responsible employee” for reporting purposes under Title IX regulations and state law and must report incidents of sexual misconduct (sexual harassment, non-consensual sexual contact, sexual assault, sexual exploitation, sexual intimidation, intimate partner violence, or stalking) about which they become aware to the Title IX office. Please know there are places on campus where you can make a report in confidence. You can find more information about resources on the Title IX website at <https://uh.edu/equal-opportunity/title-ix-sexual-misconduct/resources/>.
