

5. Yes. Nothing prevents patents directed towards perfume-related inventions, e.g., United States Patent No.5,143,900, which relates to a long-lasting perfume composition. However, this art is an exceptionally crowded one, and the United States Patent and Trademark Office has indicated that it is unwilling to grant a patent towards a perfume simply having new aromatic properties