

7. United States Patent No. 5,190,458 served as the basis for this problem. Although the claimed invention appears as little more than a subjective personality test, the PTO nonetheless allowed its grant as a technique for gaining psychological insight into a subject.