

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

UH Professors Will Analyze Issues Presented by the 2016 Presidential Election

UH Law Center, College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences host 'Super Tuesday' symposium in advance of Republican candidates' debate on campus.

Feb. 17, 2016 – The University of Houston Law Center (UHLC) and the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences (CLASS) will host a conference analyzing the 2016 presidential campaigns on Feb. 23, two days before the Republican candidates come to the UH campus to participate in their final debate before the Super Tuesday primaries.

Law, economics and political science professors will discuss the judicial, domestic and international implications of the fall election.

The conference will be from 2:30 p.m. to 5:45 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 23, in the Student Center Banquet Ballroom. Register online at www.law.uh.edu/debate.

“The Law Center is excited to co-host this event with CLASS to have a full opportunity for faculty, students, staff, and members of the public to fully ventilate the legal, economic, and political issues likely to be discussed during the upcoming election,” said Dean Leonard M. Baynes.

“The difference between the positions of the candidates, and the social, political, and economic consequences of those differences will be illuminated and dissected by the expert UH faculty in the humanities and social sciences,” said Steven G. Craig, interim CLASS dean and professor of economics.

“Super Tuesday: Analyzing the 2016 Presidential Election” will include three panel discussions:

“Presidential Politics & Policy” with UHLC Dean Leonard M. Baynes and Associate Professor Brandon Rottinghaus and Assistant Professor Elizabeth Simas, both of the Department of Political Science

“Supreme Court & Economic Implications of Presidential Elections” with CLASS Dean Steven G. Craig, Assistant Professor Vikram Mahershri of the Department of Economics, and Professor Seth Chandler and Assistant Professor D. Theodore Rave, both of the Law Center

“Presidential Elections & Latino Politics in the U.S.” with Professor Richard Murray, Professor Jason Casellas, and Associate Professor Jeronimo Cortina, all in the political science department, and Adjunct Professor Ignacio Pinto-Leon of the Law Center

The panels will be moderated by Law Center Associate Dean Marcilynn A. Burke.

The Republican presidential candidates' debate, moderated by CNN anchor Wolf Blitzer, will be Thursday, Feb. 25, in the Moores Opera House in the Moores School of Music on the UH campus.

Super Tuesday is March 1. Primaries or caucuses will take place in Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, Colorado, Georgia, Massachusetts, Minnesota, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, and Wyoming.

Media contacts: Carrie Anna Criado, UH Law Center Executive Director of Communications and Marketing, 713-743-2184, cacriado@central.uh.edu; Shannon Buggs, CLASS Director of Communication, 713-743-1916, sbuggs@uh.edu; and John T. Kling, UH Law Center Communications Manager, 713-743-8298, jtkling@central.uh.edu.

About the University of Houston

The University of Houston is a Carnegie-designated Tier One public research university recognized by The Princeton Review as one of the nation's best colleges for undergraduate education. UH serves the globally competitive Houston and Gulf Coast Region by providing world-class faculty, experiential learning and strategic industry partnerships. Located in the nation's fourth-largest city, UH serves more than 42,700 students in the most ethnically and culturally diverse region in the country.

About the University of Houston College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences

The largest and most diverse of the 12 colleges at the University of Houston, the College of Liberal Arts and Social Sciences is home to 16 schools and departments, encompassing the creative and performing arts, humanities, social sciences and behavioral studies. Our 345 permanent faculty members educate nearly 10,000 undergraduate majors and minors and 1,200 graduate students, preparing them for future studies and professional achievements.

About the University of Houston Law Center

The University of Houston Law Center is the leading law school in the nation's fourth-largest city. Founded in 1947, it is a top-tier institution awarding Doctor of Jurisprudence (J.D.) and Master of Laws (LL.M.) degrees. The Law Center is fully accredited by the American Bar Association and is a member of the Association of American Law Schools.